

SIF Media Visit to Cover the Success of the SIF Pilot Project

The media team of Singapore International Foundation (SIF) visited Indus International School on the 4th to 6th of October but this visit was quite different from the others that took place here. A small media team led by Ms Leong Wen Shan who heads the Corporate Communication and Promotion Department of SIF came down to Indus in collaboration with Channel4Asia TV Crew to produce a documentary feature on the projects that Indus is running for the local community. The team, which included a film crew, was on hand to record the penultimate class of the Vocational Training Programme and then followed the Indus SLP team around to the local community to see the work that's being done there. Staff and students of Indus gradually got used to the camera crew moving around school, interviewing the CEO and Principal along with the staffs and students who were involved in the various Community Service programmes.

Ms Leong Wen Shan, who herself is a journalist by profession had quite meticulously prepared for this media trip and had framed questions which focuses SIF and Indus sustainable partnership and the greater need to do things for the community surrounding Indus. Indus thanks SIF for their warm association with us on this very pious mission to help the community.

Students from both Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel College and Indus International School discussing conflicting issues in community while the Cannel4Asia monstrous camera peeps into their faces.
